Regulation 1. The Admission and Number of Honorary Fellows (Bye-Law 4)

1.A. Election

1.1. Honorary Fellows are elected to this grade of membership in recognition of distinguished service to the profession or for special service to the Institute. The focus is on individuals who are mid- to late-career, with the potential to make an outstanding contribution to the development of IOM3 or to its sectors and technical areas.

1.2. Honorary Fellows enjoy free subscriptions for life and are entitled to use the special post-nominal designation HonFIMMM (Bye-Law 6).

1.3. The Executive Board will normally consider such elections on the recommendation of the Awards Committee, which in turn will normally act on the advice of the Nominations Committee.

1.B. Maximum Number of Honorary Fellows

1.4. In view of its importance, the maximum number of holders of the grade of Honorary Fellow is limited to 25. If, due to mergers, the number rises above 25 then only one new Honorary Fellow may be elected for each four who leave the register of Honorary Fellows.

1.C. Cessation of Honorary Fellows

1.5. A member will cease to be an Honorary Fellow if that person:

- (i) resigns that membership by notice in writing to the Chief Executive;
- (ii) is found to have materially breached the Code of Professional Conduct in a manner that normally would be sanctioned by removal of membership; or
- (iii) dies.

1.D. Amendment and Adoption of these Regulations

1.6. These Regulations may be amended by the Executive Board.

1.7. This version was adopted in July 2023.

Regulation 2. Recruitment to Active Supporter and Volunteer Roles in IOM3 Governance

2.1. This Regulation applies to Active Supporter and Volunteer (ASV) roles in governance positions in IOM3. These are normally filled by IOM3 members in good standing at any grade. It does not apply to non-governance roles such as accreditation assessors, professional review interviewers, conference organising committee members and other, similar roles.

2.A. General Process

2.A.i. Advertising

2.2. Most active supporter and volunteer roles in governance should normally be advertised in IOM3 member magazines, on the website and in social media.

2.3. Adverts should normally be open for at least three weeks after the approximate date of arrival of the relevant member magazine with members. The standard wording on equity, diversity and inclusion (EDI) should always be included, as should a contact for further information.

2.4. All applicants should be asked for a CV and a statement setting out their motivation and qualifications for the role, how they will seek to deliver the charitable objectives of IOM3 and support members, and what they will do to promote EDI.

2.A.ii. Selection Panel

2.5. Selection panels should normally be three people, and never fewer than two. All efforts should be made to ensure that no panel is single gender. Other diversity aspects should be considered where possible.

2.6. Table 1 sets out the ideal panel composition for recruitment to roles in the top levels of governance that are made via this process. This does not include those appointed via a process set out in the Bye-laws or Regulations¹, or the exceptions mentioned above. It does include the Vice-President, the Honorary Treasurer, roles on the Audit and Awards Committees, and on the Main Boards².

¹ That is, the memberships of the Executive Board, Advisory Council and of the Nominations and Remuneration Committees.

² Commercial Activities, Education & Outreach, Members', Professional Standards & Development and Technology Communities Boards

It also includes all Main Board committee Chairs³ (except those that are also Trustees – Student & Early Career Committee, SEC, and the International Affairs Committee, IAC) and some Main Board committee members and other roles.

2.A.iii. Sift and Interview

2.7. The panel will sift applications and decide who should be interviewed. Interviews will normally take place on line and will normally be for 30-45 minutes. The same panel should normally be involved with each interview. The Nominations Committee representative will produce an agreed report for the next stage, which will identify those applicants deemed suitable for appointment and, where appropriate, a ranking.

2.A.iv. Executive Board Appointments

2.8. The panel report will be shared with the Nominations Committee, who will decide what recommendation to make to the Executive Board. The EB in turn will make (or not) the appointment based on that recommendation and the report. Other documentation (CVs, etc) will be made available on request.

2.A.v. Main Board Appointments

2.9. The panel report will be shared with the CEO (as representative of the Nominations Committee). If there are no concerns as to process, the Main Board will then make the appointment.

2.A.vi. Data Retention

2.10. In line with the IOM3 data retention policy, all unsuccessful applications will be deleted two years later.

2.B. Exceptions

2.11. The main exceptions are:

- Vice-Chair of the Student & Early Career Committee.
This person is proposed by the SEC Committee following an internal vote and is appointed (or not) by the Executive Board (EB).

³ Technical Community Leadership Teams, Member Networks, Local Affairs Committee, Professional Standards and Commercial Activities committees

- Members of the Student & Early Career Committee.
Roles on the SEC Committee should normally be advertised. Appointment is made by the Committee.
- Members of Technical Community Leadership Teams (TCLT).
These may be recruited by advertising, but this is not required. Appointment is by the Chair of the TCLT.
- Member network committee members (except SEC).
These may be recruited by advertising, but this is not required. Appointment is by the Chair of the member network committee.

2.C. Amendment and Adoption of these Regulations

2.12. These Regulations may be amended by the Executive Board.

2.13. This version was adopted in July 2023.

Regulation 3. No Regulation

Regulation 4. Affiliation of Organisations to the Institute (Bye-Law 9)

4.1. Bye-law 9 allows IOM3 to accept other organisations as affiliated bodies. This Regulation sets out the general criteria by which organisations are accepted as affiliated bodies of IOM3.

4.2. This Regulation does not cover purely commercial relationships (e.g. purchase or supply contracts), sponsorship, licensed activity, policy partnerships (e.g. National Engineering Policy Centre), IOM3 membership of other bodies (e.g. FEMS, GMPA), relations with Livery Companies, etc.

4.3. Only organisations whose activities, values and purposes are consistent with those of IOM3 may become affiliated. All organisations wishing to become affiliated must sign the affiliation agreement relevant to their category. These agreements must set out the terms, rights and obligations of each party and will normally be the same for every organisation within a given category.

4.A. Categories of Organisations that may Become Affiliated

4.4. The following categories of organisations may seek affiliation to the Institute:

- (i) Not-for-profit societies providing professional and/or learned society services to IOM3 members within defined regions of the UK and in specialist technical disciplines complementary to those of IOM3 ('Local Societies').
- (ii) Not-for-profit organisations providing professional and/or learned society services to IOM3 members within defined regions of the world outside the UK and in specialist technical disciplines complementary to those of IOM3 ('International Societies').
- (iii) Not-for-profit societies providing learned society services to IOM3 members in historical aspects of IOM3 interests ('Historical Societies').
- (iv) Professional bodies or learned societies based outside the UK with a similar technical coverage and service offering to IOM3 ('International Partners').
- (v) Trade associations representing organisations active in areas where members of IOM3 work ('Trade Associations').
- (vi) Commercial organisations that wish to benefit from selected IOM3 services such as reduced advertising rates, etc ('Business Partners').

(vii) Academic institutions such as Universities that wish to benefit from selected IOM3 services such as tailored workshops, etc ('Academic Partners').

(viii) Other organisations the Trustees deem appropriate to affiliate to IOM3 ('Other Organisations').

4.B. Grant Funding of Affiliated Bodies

4.5. Only Local, International, and Historical Societies are potentially eligible to receive grant funding (in cash or kind) from IOM3. This will be to support those of their activities that help deliver the charitable objects of IOM3 on the sharing of knowledge of materials, minerals, and mining and support professionals in materials, minerals, and mining. Such grant funding arrangements will be set out in grant agreements and are only available to those organisations that have affiliated by signing the relevant affiliation agreement.

4.C. Amendment and Adoption of these Regulations

4.6. These Regulations may be amended by the Executive Board.

4.7. This version was adopted in July 2023.

Regulation 5. No Regulation

Regulation 6. Disciplinary and Appeals (Bye-Laws 15(c), 18)

6.A. THE DISCIPLINARY AND APPEALS PROCEDURE AND ITS APPLICATION TO THE MEMBER

6.1. It is essential that the Institute of Materials, Minerals and Mining regulates its membership through appropriate standards. This it does through a Code of Professional Conduct. It must also have the wherewithal to deal in a fair and prescribed manner with members who contravene and transcend the Code of Professional Conduct in addition to making provision for any member who becomes the subject of such proceedings to appeal any decision subsequently made. The Institute has therefore put in place this Disciplinary and Appeals Procedure to support the Code of Professional Conduct.

6.2. When an individual becomes a member, at any grade, of the Institute, they enter into a contract which binds them to uphold the Code of Professional Conduct. As a consequence this makes any member liable to the Disciplinary and Appeals Procedure. The only exceptions to this rule are members acting as trustees of the Institute and members who are paid employees of the Institute. This exemption only covers their actions in discharging their respective roles.

6.3. The purpose of the Institute's disciplinary and appeals procedure is not to punish but to protect and safeguard the public interest. In addition it maintains the high standing and integrity of the Institute, its membership and the wider profession.

6.B. PRINCIPLES OF THE DISCIPLINARY & APPEALS PROCEDURE

6.4. The Disciplinary and Appeals procedure is underpinned by the following principles:

- The proceedings will be conducted in private and be clear, open, fair, unbiased and proportionate.
- All people involved should respect the confidentiality of the proceedings; members will be bound by the Code of Professional Conduct and the IOM3 team by the confidentiality clause in their contracts of employment with the Institute.
- No person should participate in decision-making in more than one stage of the process of any case.
- Whilst the Institute is the owner of the process, it may delegate authority for any part of the process to an appropriate third party.
- Judgement and decision-making may only be undertaken by appropriately qualified persons specifically appointed for the task.

- There is a presumption of innocence until a breach of the Code of Professional Conduct has been admitted or proved. Decisions will be based on the appropriate standard of proof.
- Proved breaches of the Code of Professional Practice may only attract sanctions as allowed by the Bye-Laws.
- Clear timescales will be established and agreed for each stage of the process; progress will be monitored by the Director of Membership and Professional Standards.
- Records will be maintained for a minimum period of 10 years from the conclusion of the process.

6.C. Stages of the Disciplinary and Appeals Procedure

6.C.i. Initial Review

6.5. Once a complaint is received an initial review will be undertaken by a suitably qualified and senior person within the Institute Team appointed by the Chair of the Professional Standards and Development Board (PSDB). This will usually be the Director of Membership and Professional Standards or the Director of Business Support. The Chair of PSDB is a member of the Institute Executive Board and will report directly to this group at appropriate stages. This review will have the purpose of framing the complaint as an alleged breach of the Code of Professional Conduct, collecting initial information, and presenting an advisory summary to the Chair. It is anticipated that this Initial Review take no longer than 60 working days from the first working day after the complaint is received, to its being presented to the Chair. When a complaint is received against a member of the Institute, they will not be allowed to resign their membership nor be lapsed from the membership, through for example non-payment of membership fees.

6.6. Should the Chair decide there is a case to answer, a Preliminary Investigation will be initiated with a suitably qualified Case Officer being assigned from the Senior Team of the Institute Team who will coordinate and administer the process. If the Chair does not believe there is a case to answer, the complaint will be dismissed.

6.C.ii. Preliminary Investigation

6.7. The purpose of the Preliminary Investigation is to investigate the complaint in detail to determine whether the alleged misconduct would, if admitted or proved, lie within the ambit or jurisdiction of the Disciplinary Panel. To enable such a decision to be reached, robust and significant evidence needs to be assembled to assess the validity of the complaint. During this process, the subject of the complaint should be informed of the complaint and kept informed of developments; evidence submitted by the complainant and the subject shall be disclosed to each other. The Preliminary Investigation is undertaken by a panel of three trained Fellows of the Institute supported by the Case Officer; one of the Fellows will act as Chair of the Preliminary Investigation. None of the Panel members should have a conflict of interest which creates a real danger of bias in respect of either the subject or complainant, or employers of either party.

6.8. The Panel is expected to reach one of two decisions at the conclusion of its investigation: a decision of 'no case to answer' should result in dismissal of the complaint. The subject and the complainant should be informed of the decision and the reason behind it. Records of the complaint including evidence need not be maintained beyond the time limit for any appeal by the complainant. A finding that there was a 'case to answer' should result in referral to a Disciplinary Panel.

6.9. The Preliminary Investigation should also determine whether any criminal or civil court proceedings related to the alleged misconduct are likely or underway. If so, then the disciplinary hearing should not proceed until the court proceedings, including any appeal, are concluded. Where the subject has been convicted of a criminal offence or found liable in a civil court, the disciplinary hearing must separately determine whether the subject's conduct (including, but not limited to, that proven in court) amounts to a breach of the Code of Professional Conduct. An adverse court verdict should not in itself form the basis of a complaint. It is anticipated that the Preliminary Investigation take no longer than 90 working days from the working day following the confirmation of the Preliminary Investigation Panel members.

6.C.iii. Disciplinary Hearing

6.10. The Disciplinary Hearing will be conducted by a Disciplinary Panel consisting of three trained Fellows of the Institute. None of the Disciplinary Panel should have been involved in any of the earlier stages or have a conflict of interest which might create bias in respect of either the subject or complainant, or employers of either party. In more serious cases where a 'license to practise' or potential loss of livelihood is involved, a lay member (a trained individual holding the Fellowship grade of a different professional body) will be included on the Panel. One of the Panel will be appointed by the Chair of PSDB to act as Chair of the Disciplinary Panel. It will be their responsibility to report the findings of the Disciplinary Hearing to the Professional Standards and Development Board. The Disciplinary Hearing is held 'In-camera' and will take place at an Institute office or via secure videoconference.

6.11. The Disciplinary Panel's role is to act as impartial assessors of the complaint. It may request the attendance of any witness it feels is able to clarify or confirm the evidence collected to help it reach a decision.

6.12. It is expected to reach one of two decisions at the conclusion of the hearing: if it finds the 'complaint upheld', it will also decide the sanction against the subject to be proposed to the PSDB (see Section 6.C.vi); if it finds the 'complaint unproven', it will be dismissed.

6.C.iv. Disciplinary Process

6.13. This involves the collection, examination, and clarification of evidence. Prejudicial material that is irrelevant to the 'case to answer' will not be presented as evidence. The subject and complainant should have timely access to all evidence and responses. Where the complaint relates to matters of a specialised technical nature, the Disciplinary Panel may engage an expert technical witness. The Disciplinary Panel may decide after examining the evidence, or in more serious complex cases, organise an extended hearing to which all parties are invited. For extended hearings, consideration may be given to inviting a legal adviser to attend and advise on the legal process but not vote on the decision.

6.14. The subject of the alleged misconduct will be invited to the Disciplinary Hearing. A complainant may be invited to attend to observe the proceedings, at the discretion of the Disciplinary Panel, but not be allowed to speak. They can however be called as a witness. The parties involved will be entitled to bring to the hearing a friend. If the friend is a lawyer, they may speak on the respective parties' behalf. If the friend is a non-lawyer, a 'McKenzie Friend', they may support the respective party, take notes, and quietly provide advice, but may not speak on behalf of the respective party. The cost involved in engaging a friend, be they lawyer or non-lawyer, will be borne by the individual parties.

6.15. Consideration will be given to adjourning the hearing if the subject is unable to be present or represented. If the subject fails to appear on the day of the hearing, a brief adjournment may be considered to allow enquiries to be made.

6.16. The Disciplinary Hearing will be conducted with transparent fairness. It will involve a statement of the complaint by the Case Officer (or their representative) and the evidence to support it (with any cross-examination of the witnesses) followed by a rebuttal by the subject (or their representative) with evidence which is also open to cross-examination. Additionally, evidence may include written statements at the Disciplinary Panel's discretion. Neither party should be ambushed with new evidence which has not been disclosed in advance. It is anticipated that the Disciplinary Hearing will have been held within 90 working days of the Disciplinary Panel being confirmed.

6.C.v. Burden of Proof

6.17. This will be 'the balance of probabilities', the civil standard. However, in cases where a 'licence to practise' or potential loss of livelihood is involved, the burden of proof will be 'beyond reasonable doubt'.

6.C.vi. Sanction

6.18. It will usually be the responsibility of the PSDB to recommend a sanction to the Executive Board if the 'complaint is upheld' by the Disciplinary Panel. The PSDB will be briefed by the Director of Membership and Professional Standards on the sanctions that can be recommended.

6.C.vii. Right of Appeal

6.19. The right of appeal will be available to the complainant following the Preliminary Investigation and to the subject following the Disciplinary Hearing. Both have 30 working days to lodge their appeals from the date of communication of the respective decisions. The appeal process consists of two parts: leave to appeal and if leave is granted, an independent review of the Preliminary Investigation or the Disciplinary Hearing by an Appeal Panel.

6.C.viii. Leave to Appeal

6.20. This is not granted automatically and specific grounds should be identified usually involving the following:

- Jurisdiction – the complaint fell outside the scope of the Code of Professional Conduct.
- Procedure – correct procedure was not followed.
- Perversity – the decision was perverse in light of the evidence.
- New evidence which could not reasonably have been produced at the original hearing.
- Proportionality – the sanction was disproportionate to the gravity of the breach.

6.21. Leave to appeal may be granted on two or more grounds, but not on an accumulation of individually insufficient arguments under two or more grounds.

6.22. Leave to appeal against 'no case to answer' will be considered by a suitable trained person who is independent of the Institute. They will review the material presented to the Preliminary Investigation, the record of its decision, and any additional evidence admitted. If the independent reviewer decides there is a 'case to answer', the Institute will refer the case to a Disciplinary Panel.

6.23. Leave to appeal against a Disciplinary Panel decision will be considered by the Chair of the PSDB. If leave to appeal is granted, the Institute will convene an Appeal Panel with minimum delay.

6.C.ix. Appeal Panel & Hearing

6.24. The Appeal Panel will be made up of three trained Fellows of the Institute, who are not members of Council or the PSDB, and who have had no contact with the case before or any conflict of interest which might create bias in respect of either the subject or complainant, or employers of either party. The Chair of PSDB will appoint one of the Panel Chair of the Appeal Panel; it will be their responsibility to report the findings of the Appeal Panel to the PSDB. The Institute might decide to have a legal advisor in attendance. The Appeal Panel will be supported by the Director of Membership and Professional Standards.

6.25. The Appeal Hearing will follow the same principles as the Disciplinary Hearing, modified to suit the accepted grounds for appeal; a full hearing might not be required in all circumstances. It is anticipated that the Appeal Hearing will have been held within 90 working days of the Appeal Panel being confirmed.

6.C.x. Appeal to Licensing Bodies

6.26. This is only available if a member, in losing their membership because of disciplinary action by the Institute also loses their Engineering Council or Society for the Environment registration, and the appeals procedure has been exhausted. In the case of the Engineering Council this is carried out under Engineering Council Regulation 1. In the case of the Society for the Environment, this is carried out under Society for the Environment Regulation 71. This option is not available for registrants of the Science Council.

6.A. Amendment and Adoption of these Regulations

6.27. These Regulations may be amended by the Executive Board.

6.28. This version was adopted in November 2023.

Regulation 7. Code for Professional Conduct (Bye-Law 17)

7.A. ETHICAL BEHAVIOUR AND ITS APPLICATION TO THE MEMBER

7.1. The duty upon members of the Institute to behave ethically is, in effect, the duty to behave honourably; in other words, 'to do the right thing'. At its most basic, it means that a member should be truthful and honest in dealings with clients, colleagues, other professionals and anyone else the member comes into contact with in the course of their duties. Being a professional and a member of a professional body, such as the Institute, is a badge of probity and good faith, and members should do nothing that in any way could diminish the high standing of the profession. This includes any aspect of a member's personal conduct which could give a negative impact upon the profession. The Engineering Council/Royal Academy of Engineering *Statement of Ethical Principles*⁸, the requirements of the Society for the Environment's *Code of Professional Conduct*⁹ and the Science Council's Model Rules of Conduct are embedded in this IOM3 Code of Professional Conduct.

7.2. Members should always be aware of the overriding responsibility to the public good. A member's obligations to the client can never override this, and members should not enter undertakings which compromise this responsibility. The 'public good' encompasses care and respect for the environment, and for humanity's cultural, historical and archaeological heritage, as well as the primary responsibility members have to protect the health and wellbeing of present and future generations.

7.B. THE CODE FOR PROFESSIONAL CONDUCT

7.3. To enable members to conduct themselves properly in the performance of their professional duties, the Institute is obliged to provide a Code of Professional Conduct which lays down, both for its members and for the general public, the ethical standards by which its members should abide. The code will apply to all its members, irrespective of their grade, the professional role they fulfil and the country in which they practise. The code contains, first of all, the specific rules of conduct to which members must adhere. The rules cover, in plain language, those basic things that members must do. Where appropriate, there are Policy Statements and Guidance Notes which cover the main areas of professional activity that a member is likely to be involved in and to help them interpret and apply the rules.

7.4. An act which breaches one of the Policy Statements will probably breach the Rule for Professional Conduct to which it applies. However a member will not be considered necessarily to have breached the Rules for Professional Conduct solely because they have not followed a Guidance Note.

⁸ <https://www.iom3.org/resource/engc-statement-of-ethical-principles-pdf.html>

⁹ <https://socenv.org.uk/code-of-conduct/>

7.5. Many, perhaps most members will pass through their professional lives without ever having to consider whether their actions are in accordance with the Code for Professional Conduct. However the Institute is anxious that any member, who is troubled by an ethical problem, particularly if they are worried about breaching the Rules for Professional Conduct, should be able to discuss their concerns with one or more of the senior members of the Institute. Any member who wishes to do this should contact the Director of Membership and Professional Standards so that arrangements can be made.

7.C. THE RULES FOR PROFESSIONAL CONDUCT

1. All members discharge their professional duties with integrity and shall not undertake work which they are not competent to do.
2. All members shall have full regard for the public interest particularly in relation to matters of health and safety, and in relation to the well-being of future generations.
3. All members shall show due regard for the environment and for the sustainable management of natural resources.
4. All members shall update and broaden their professional knowledge, understanding and skills on a continuing basis and shall give all reasonable assistance to further the continuing professional development of other members of the profession.
5. All members shall notify the Institute if convicted of a criminal offence involving dishonesty or violence, or upon becoming bankrupt or disqualified as a Company Director, or if removed from the membership of another professional body as a consequence of a disciplinary procedure.

7.D. GUIDANCE NOTES ON THE INTERPRETATION AND APPLICATION OF THE RULES FOR PROFESSIONAL CONDUCT

7.D.i. Rule 1: All members shall discharge their professional duties with integrity and shall not undertake work that they are not competent to do.

7.6. Members must carry out their professional duties with complete objectivity and impartiality, and must always declare, and where possible avoid all conflicts of interest.

- 7.7. Members must have due regard to the duty of confidence in relation to all parties with whom they have dealings as part of their professional duties.
- 7.8. Members must at all times have due regard to their duty of care to clients, especially lay clients in domestic or small works engagements.
- 7.9. Terms of the engagement must be put in writing and must state the fees to be charged; whenever practicable these should be issued to the client before the project has begun.
- 7.10. Members not carrying Professional Indemnity Insurance, either personally or through their employers, must advise their clients of the position before accepting the engagement. They must take all reasonable steps to ensure that their prospective clients understand the extent to which they are covered by professional indemnity insurance and must not accept an engagement where there is reasonable doubt that the client does not understand the extent of their professional indemnity insurance.
- 7.11. Members must not have any form of involvement, however indirect, in bribery and corruption. Members should be especially rigorous when operating in countries where the offering and accepting of inducements and favours is endemic.
- 7.12. Members must show due consideration and respect to colleagues and other people, with whom they have dealings in the course of their professional duties, including communication on social media. They must treat all people and organisations equally with respect and without bias and must uphold the legal standing of protected characteristics defined by the 2010 Equality Act.
- 7.13. Members must understand their personal and professional responsibility to the safeguarding of others, particularly vulnerable people and members of minority groups. They must not act in any way or participate in any activity that exploits, harasses or demeans other people or organisations, and leads or attempts to lead to their loss of personal and/or professional dignity and standing.
- 7.14. When commenting on another person's work, a member must advise that person of their involvement, except for routine or statutory checks or where the member's client or employer requires confidentiality.
- 7.15. When competing with other professionals and when taking actions likely to affect adversely the professional or business interests of another person, a member must not act maliciously or recklessly.

7.16. Members must be competent in relation to every project that they undertake. They must ensure that, having regard to the nature and extent of their involvement in a project, they have all the relevant knowledge and expertise. Where appropriate, this may include access to the knowledge and experience of others, or access to other relevant sources of knowledge, in addition to the member's own knowledge and experience. In so doing, they must pay due regard to the laws on data protection, copyright, and the rights of intellectual property. They must disclose, where appropriate, any relevant limitations upon their competence.

7.17. Members who are responsible for the work of others, or who have a management responsibility for other persons, must take responsibility for the work produced. They must ensure that they have the knowledge and expertise to effectively oversee the work for which they are accountable.

7.D.ii. Rule 2: All members shall have full regard for the public interest, particularly in relation to matters of health and safety, and in relation to the well-being of future generations.

7.18. Members must take all reasonable steps to protect the health and safety of members of the public and of those engaged in the project, both during the construction and the operation and maintenance stages. This will include obeying all legislation relating to health and safety but may extend beyond that to all situations in which there is inadequate statutory provision. Members must not enter into any contracts which compromise this overall responsibility.

7.19. Where new or under-tested materials, methods or equipment are being used, members must pay particular attention to the public safety implications, having regard to the possibility that performance of the materials or methods may be worse than forecast. The use of such materials or methods and the risks involved must be drawn specifically to the client's notice.

7.20. Producing competitive bids should not result in the inappropriate exposure to hazard of any person at any time. Members have a duty, as far as is reasonable, to keep abreast of emerging hazards and inform interested parties accordingly.

7.21. Members must take all reasonable steps to manage and limit risk and should act in accordance with the Engineering Council Guidance on Risk. If members are in any doubt about the action they should take, they should seek the advice of the Institute.

7.22. Members should take all reasonable steps to avoid preventable disasters and should act in accordance with the Royal Academy of Engineering Guidelines for Warnings of Preventable Disasters. If members are in any doubt about the action they should take, they should seek the advice of the Institute.

7.23. Members must take account of the broader public interest – the interests of ‘winners’ and losers’ in any project must be taken properly into account, including the impact on future generations. This must include regard for the impact upon the society and quality of life of affected individuals, groups or communities, and upon their cultural, archaeological and ethnic heritage, and the broader interests of humanity as a whole.

7.24. Members must notify the Institute of any significant breach of the Rules for Professional Conduct by another member and should seriously consider reporting another professional with whom they may be professionally connected, to their professional body if they appear to be breaching the general principles of ethical practice and who is likely to bring the profession into disrepute.

7.D.iii. Rule 3: All members shall show due regard for the environment and for the sustainable management of natural resources.

7.25. Members should act in accordance with the Engineering Council Guidance on Sustainability or, where appropriate, similar guidance from the Society for the Environment or the Science Council. If members are in any doubt about the action they should take, they should seek the advice of the Institute.

7.D.iv. Rule 4: All members shall update and broaden their professional knowledge, skills and competence on a continuing basis, and shall give all reasonable assistance to further the education, training and continuing professional development of other members and prospective members of the profession.

7.26. All members are required to improve and update technical knowledge, and keep abreast of all relevant developments including new or changed statutory provisions and maintain a record of their activities.

7.27. The Institute reserves the right to request the continuing professional development record of any member at any time and failure to comply with such a request may result in disciplinary action.

7.28. Every member has a duty to be proactive in the training and continuing professional development of others, especially those for whom the member has line management responsibility.

7.D.v. Rule 5: All members shall notify the Institute if convicted of a criminal offence involving dishonesty or violence, or upon becoming bankrupt or disqualified as a Company Director.

7.29. Members need not notify the Institute of any parking fines or minor motoring offences. Members must, however, report convictions for dangerous driving or driving whilst under the influence of drugs or alcohol.

7.D.vi. Risk

7.30. Members need to know of the Engineering Council Guidance on Risk. All projects or business ventures involve some sort of risk. Whether a project can be said to have been a 'failure' will depend not only on its performance in simple structural terms. It will be judged according to its lifetime performance in relation to the investment concerned and the negative impact concomitant with every addition to the built environment.

7.31. Any member with a responsibility for a project, or any part of it, must, by maintaining awareness in their discipline, be aware of the risks and their causes and whose is the responsibility for them. Members should be sufficiently familiar with the underlying procedures, processes and mechanisms to analyse their risks, recommend sensible management measures and give informed expert judgements on the causes and probabilities of failure, based on the residual risks. This may involve assistance from trained risk analysts, but the member's responsibility for the judgement is theirs alone.

7.32. No member can be expected to eliminate all risk. But members of the Institute have an ethical responsibility to take all appropriate measures to limit risk, in particular by ensuring that there is adequate risk analysis/assessment and an effective management process during the planning, implementation and post-implementation phases in any project, e.g. through the use of such tools as are designed to evaluate all major risks over the lifetime of a project, including the risk that the net revenue stream may vary significantly from that forecast.

7.D.vii. Preventing Disasters

7.33. Members need to know of the Royal Academy of Engineering Guidelines for Warnings of Preventable Disasters. If a situation is developing which is causing a member concern, the member should not hesitate to consult the Institute for guidance if this is needed. Members working in the UK should be aware of the statutory provisions in the UK enshrined in the Public Interest Disclosure Act 1998, which permit certain disclosures in the public interest and prohibits dismissal in relation to those disclosures. Further advice is also available from the Engineering Council Guidance on Whistleblowing.

7.34. The responsibility to prevent disasters does not lie simply with those who first become aware that a set of circumstances has arisen which might lead to a disaster. Members who are in senior management positions have a duty to establish procedures so that potentially hazardous situations can be reported to those in a position to take action and ultimately to prevent them becoming actual disasters. They should ensure that all relevant staff are fully versed in these procedures, and they should provide that the lines of communications reach not only those who have the responsibility to take corrective action but also those who can understand the implications of the situation.

7.D.viii. Small Projects

7.35. Unclear terms of engagement in small projects, particularly with small, private or lay clients, can be a common cause of client dissatisfaction, sometimes leading to complaints against members. Members should always make clear at the outset, in simple, layman's language, what the contract will cover and what it will not cover. Members should take all reasonable steps to satisfy themselves that the client fully understands the service that is to be provided.

7.A. Amendment and Adoption of these Regulations

Regulation 18. Finance (Bye-Laws 55-7)

18.A. Introduction

18.1. The Executive Board has responsibility for ensuring that the Institute complies with statutory legislation and has appropriate systems of control, financial and otherwise. It is responsible for safeguarding the assets of the charity and hence for taking reasonable steps for the prevention and detection of fraud and other irregularities.

18.2. These regulations import some aspects directly from the Royal Charter and Bye-Laws in order that they can be read as a complete and standalone document. In considering any review of these Regulations reference must be made to those documents in order that consistency is maintained.

18.B. Risk management

18.3. The Executive Board shall regularly review a formal risk management plan to enable it to assess business risks and implement risk management strategies on a regular basis. This will involve identifying the types of risks the Institute faces, prioritising them in terms of potential impact and likelihood of occurrence, and identifying means of mitigating the risks. As part of this process the Executive Board shall review the adequacy of the charity's internal controls. The systems of internal control shall be designed to provide reasonable, but not absolute, assurance against material misstatement or loss. They shall include:

- a strategic plan and an annual budget approved by the Executive Board;
- regular consideration by the Executive Board of financial results, variance from budgets, non-financial performance indicators and benchmarking reviews;
- delegation of authority and segregation of duties.

18.4. Outside of the strategic plan and the annual budget no capital expenditure will be made unless prior approval is gained from the Executive Board.

18.C. Accounting records, annual accounts and reporting

18.5. The Executive Board:

- Shall ensure that proper accounting records are kept. These shall disclose with reasonable accuracy at any time the financial position of the Institute and enable the Executive Board to ensure that annual financial statements comply with current charity law applicable to charities in England and Wales and the provisions of the Royal Charter and Bye-Laws;

- Shall be responsible for the maintenance and integrity of the charity and financial information included on the charity's website
- Shall ensure that the trustees' report and the financial statements are prepared in accordance with applicable law and United Kingdom accounting standards;

18.6. In accordance with the law applicable to charities in England and Wales, the Executive Board shall have prepared financial statements for each financial year, which give a true and fair view of the state of affairs of the charity and of the incoming resources and application of resources of the charity for that period. Those financial statements shall:

- use suitable accounting policies and apply them consistently;
- observe the methods and principles in the Charities Statement of Recommended Practice (or any statement of recommended practice supported by the Charity Commission);
- make judgements and estimates that are reasonable and prudent;
- state whether applicable accounting standards have been followed, subject to any material departures disclosed and explained in the financial statements;
- be prepared on the going concern basis unless it is inappropriate to presume that the Institute will continue to operate.

18.D. Location and access to accounting records

18.7. The finance team will maintain the accounting records including computerised records.

18.8. Members of the Executive Board and others entitled to access accounting records will request information in an appropriate way; normally through the Finance Director.
